✝ Four Circle

Find your church home.

A national church directory and a faith community in one app. People use it to find a church when they move, when they come back after years away, or when they are looking for the first time — and churches use it to be found.

The directory is built from open map data and is ours outright — no per-search fees, no third-party licence, nothing that can be switched off.

Find a church

One search box that understands what people actually type into it.

- Search by church name, city, ZIP code, state or denomination — all in the same field.
- Near you, sorted by real distance, computed against a spatial index rather than guessed.
- Filter by denomination — Baptist, Catholic, Methodist, Lutheran, Pentecostal, AME and more.
- Every church has a page: address, phone, website, one-tap directions, service times and photos.
- Save the ones you want to come back to. Your saved list follows your account to any device.

Your church, in your hands

A church does not sign up — it is already listed. It claims what is there.

- Claim your listing and, once approved, correct the name, address, phone, website and service times.
- Upload a profile photo, a cover photo and a gallery, and remove the placeholder we imported.
- A verified badge that has to be earned — nobody can approve their own claim.
- Post to your congregation, announce events, and reach people who saved you.

Claims are reviewed by a person. The approval is what grants control, which is what keeps one church's listing out of another's hands.

A community, not a listing site

The part people come back for.

- A shared feed with posts, photos, likes, comments, threaded replies and reposts.
- Follow churches and people, and see what they share.
- Ten kinds of notification — likes, comments, replies, follows, shares, announcements, new posts from your church, new events near you, invitations and claim decisions.
- A profile with your posts, your activity and a verse that means something to you.

Events and tickets

Conferences, services, youth nights — created, shared and ticketed in the app.

- Create an event with a venue, schedule, speakers, capacity and ticket price.
- Browse what is happening near you, save it, and invite people directly.
- A 5% platform fee, capped at $5. A $100 ticket costs the organiser $5 here; on Eventbrite the same ticket runs closer to $9.
- Card payments handled by Stripe, so no card details ever touch our servers.

Built in English and Spanish, properly

Not a translated menu — the whole app.

- 807 translated strings covering every screen, every error message, every button.
- The privacy policy and terms of service are translated too, not just the easy parts.
- A US faith audience that is served in Spanish almost nowhere else.

Safety and privacy, taken seriously

The things that decide whether people stay.

- Block a person, hide a single post, and report anything to be reviewed.
- Control whether your profile is public and whether your location is shown.
- Delete your account and have it actually deleted — server first, then the device.
- Every table protected by row-level security, so people can only ever read their own private data.

Coming next

Two things are built but not finished, and they are the honest gaps: payouts to event organisers, which needs Stripe Connect before any event can pay out; and photographs for more of the directory — 645 churches have one today, and the rest show a generated cover until their church claims the listing and uploads its own.
